of Forensic Social Work

The Changing Face of Forensic Social Work

NOFSW Annual Conference: June 19-22, 2018

Hyatt Centric French Quarter Hotel – New Orleans, LA

In today's ever-changing socio-political climate, the field of forensic social work is more relevant than ever. On the front lines, in our institutions of higher education and from within legal systems, forensic social workers – along with our multidisciplinary allies and partners – are leading change on a national...and global...scale. The changing face of forensic social work is first and foremost:

Inclusive and expansive – recognizing the value of individual and professional diversity and harnessing the power of a “full spectrum” approach to civil/family and criminal law perspectives that are solidly based in holistic social work principles and values.

Proactive – identifying and anticipating research and practice trends while promoting state-of-the-art intervention on micro (clinical) through macro (management, social change) levels. Being on the forefront of our field means embracing educational/learning opportunities that promote our own professional growth and development so that we can stand strong in supporting the social determinants of health and well-being.

Collaborative – creating new pathways toward working synergistically with our communities and colleagues; building bridges that are cutting edge, foster service integration and that place the children, families and communities we serve at the center of ethical and effective forensic practices, policies and procedures.

We invite YOU to be part of the changing face of forensic social work by coming to the 2018 NOFSW conference to present on or learn about cutting-edge innovations in our field.

Join us at the 2017 NOFSW Conference – Social Justice Rising – to explore how we, as forensic social workers, can harness this momentum to lead our communities toward real systemic change.

Conferences attendees will increase their knowledge, values, and skills for working with forensic populations in healthcare, social service, and legal settings, including the courts and corrections.

General Information:

The NOFSW Forensic Social Work Certificate program will be offered as a pre-conference institute on June 19. Workshops, panels and paper presentations will be presented June 20-22, 2018. Posters will be presented at the Opening Reception, Wednesday, June 20, 2018

2018 NOFSW Conference Program Agenda

Tuesday June 19, 2018

7:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Registration

7:30 a.m.-8:30 a.m. Continental Breakfast

8:30am-4:30pm

(Networking lunch will be provided to Certificate participants)

Forensic Social Work Certificate Program (not included with conference registration)

The Forensic Social Work Certificate is a program sanctioned by the National Organization of Forensic Social Work. Graduates who have successfully met program expectations are identified as having received training in topics deemed foundational to sound forensic social work knowledge. It would be appropriate to list or note this certificate among a professional's specialized areas of training. It would not be appropriate to list as a credential after one's name (e.g. Sallie Sue, FSWC). If you have questions about the proper use of the FSW Certificate please contact the NOFSW Executive Director.

Topics

Orientation to the FSW Certificate

Covers attendance and participation expectations for certificate institute attendees; outlines the professional benefits and limitations of the certificate.

History and Foundations of Forensic Social work: A Cultural Journey

A brief look back at the history of the field with specific attention to the cross-cultural nature of social work and the law; identifies emerging topics shaping the future of the field.

Court Systems and Expert Testimony

Examines the court context of forensic social work practice focusing on criminal, consultant and child welfare examples.

Keys to Successful Offender Reentry

Explores mental health and addiction intervention factors and their impact on the transitioning back to the community; challenges and opportunities for forensic social work

Juvenile (In)justice

Considers the socio-political factors directing children to the JJ system including a critical examination of racial disparities and how these play out at crucial decision points for our youth.

Public Defense Mitigation: Telling the Story

Provides a step-by-step approach to the forensic social worker's role in sentencing advocacy; core social work skills are translated into the special needs for working effectively with a defense team.

Law Enforcement: Partnerships with Purpose

Understanding law enforcement can be of significant benefit to variety of FSW functions including work in domestic violence, child protection and dependent and older adult protection.
